

TeaBook Book Groups – Call for Volunteers

Love books & literature? Enjoy working alongside others in small group settings? Have great communication skills? Could you inspire & motivate others about reading?

‘Bookfeast’ are looking for new TeaBook Group Leaders to lead book groups for older people in day care settings around Oxfordshire.

Bookfeast is an Oxfordshire based charity committed to providing opportunities for the young, the old and the disadvantaged of all ages to find support and encouragement to read for pleasure, to engage in creative writing and to have access to high quality book events.

Could you:

- ☛ Commit to leading sessions every 2 – 3 weeks for one hour during 2011, starting in April?
- ☛ Link with your local library to order, collect and deliver books to the group?
- ☛ Lead discussion with the group on the books read – encouraging all to take part, ensure all are heard and opinions shared?
- ☛ Carry out 2 hours in addition to each book group session to maintain basic records, evaluation and sourcing new titles to read?

Bookfeast would offer:

- One days training on skills for running the book group
- Support from the TeaBook Coordinator
- Networking opportunities with other group leaders
- Up to £5 travel cost for each session
