SISSONNE BRITISH CEMETERY

Commemorated in perpetuity by the Commonwealth War Graves Commission

The village of Sissonne was in German hands during almost the whole of the 1914-1918 War.

The British Cemetery was made after the Armistice by the concentration of graves from the nearby Chemin-des-Dames battlefield and from smaller burial grounds and German military cemeteries.

There are now 291 Commonwealth burials of the 1914-18 war commemorated in this site. Of these, 127 are unidentified and special memorials are erected to four United Kingdom soldiers, buried in La Malmaison German Cemetery and Chateau-Porcien Communal Cemetery, whose graves could not be found. A few of those buried here fell in 1914, but the great majority in 1918.

The cemetery covers an area of 1,135 square metres and is enclosed by a rubble wall.
